Mobile Phones

In 2018, the NSW Department of Education reviewed the use of mobile phones in both primary and secondary schools. As part of this review, the committee found that many students' learning suffered when they bring mobile phones to school and the Department has recommended to Principals that secondary children do not need mobile phones at school. Mobile phones distract children from learning and often lead to them missing important classwork.

If a secondary child brings a mobile phone to school, then they are required to put the phone away during class time or give it to the Front Office to keep secure for the day.

If there is an emergency and you need to speak with your child, then please call the Front Office on 80915801 and we will convey a message to your child or have the child come to the office to speak with you.

If a secondary child does bring a phone to school, and the phone is misused during class time then the class teacher will take the phone to the front office and lock it securely in the school safe. The phone will be returned at the end of the day and the child reminded of the school rules of leaving phones at home.

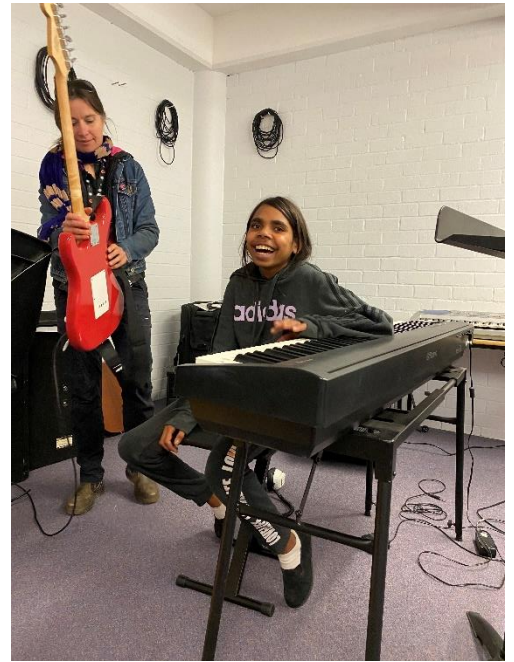

7/8 F have been having a great time in class learning about coding robots and virtual reality.
